

Panel 1

Entering the Woods

CAPTION: The day surrenders to the creeping frost.

NARRATION: Twilight paints the sky in bruised shades of violet and indigo. But the trees? the trees hold a darkness all their own.

ROBERT FROST

(Softly, to himself)

Whose woods these are I think I know. His house is in the village though...

Panel 2

The Dark and Deep

CAPTION: A cathedral of ice and shadow.

NARRATION: Not a soul stirs. The heavy snow swallows the sounds of the living world, wrapping the frozen pines in a heavy, suffocating blanket of white.

ROBERT FROST

He will not see me stopping here to watch his woods fill up with snow.

Panel 3

The Horse's Bells

CAPTION: Jingle. Jangle.

NARRATION: Suddenly, the breathless silence is shattered. The weary steed tosses its head, protesting the bitter chill, sending a bright, silver chime ringing through the gloomy hollows.

ROBERT FROST

Easy, old friend. What's that you say? A mistake in such a lonely place?

Panel 4

The Frozen Lake

CAPTION: The edge of the great mirror.

NARRATION: They halt at the border of a black, frozen lake. The wind sweeps across the ice, a low, haunting whistle that seems to carry secrets from the very edge of the earth.

ROBERT FROST

The only other sound's the sweep of easy wind and downy flake.

Panel 5

Miles to Go

CAPTION: The path calls.

NARRATION: The woods are lovely, dark, and deep. But the world of men is far, and the night is growing older by the second. Footprints vanish behind them, swallowed by the relentless snow.

ROBERT FROST

But I have promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep... and miles to go before I sleep.