

Panel 1

Into the Woods

CAPTION: Twilight in New England. A world wrapped in frost, whispering secrets to the coming night.

NARRATION: Some men seek fortune in the city. Others chase glory on the battlefield. But the poet? He seeks the quiet poetry of the falling snow.

ROBERT FROST

(Softly, to himself)

Easy, old girl. Let's see what the evening has written for us.

Panel 2

Whose Woods These Are

CAPTION: The boundary line. Where civilization ends, and the wild unknown begins.

NARRATION: The horse knows the way, even when the path is buried. She stops, nostrils flaring as warm breath meets the freezing bite of winter.

ROBERT FROST

Whose woods these are I think I know... his house is in the village though.

Panel 3

The Only Other Sound

CAPTION: Silence. Heavy, ancient, and absolute?broken only by a sudden, metallic shiver.

NARRATION: A twitch of the ear. A toss of the mane. And the fragile music of winter cuts through the hush.

ROBERT FROST

He will not see me stopping here to watch his woods fill up with snow.

Panel 4

Dark and Deep

CAPTION: The forest calls. Infinite, beautiful, and utterly lonesome.

NARRATION: It's a siren song woven from ice and shadow. The trees stretch out like dark fingers, promising an endless, dreamless peace beneath the white blanket.

ROBERT FROST

The woods are lovely, dark and deep...

Panel 5

Miles to Go

CAPTION: But the warmth of a hearth is still a memory, waiting down the winding trail.

NARRATION: The temptation fades with the howling wind. The journey isn't over yet; the waking world still demands its due.

ROBERT FROST

(Pulling the reins, a weary smile on his face)

...But I have promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep. Giddyup.